Here's how Care Coordinators can help:

Identify strengths and barriers to recovery.

Determining your strengths and challenges will go a long way toward finding the best path.

Recommend an assessment.

A Care Coordinator may suggest you see a healthcare provider or an addiction counselor for an evaluation which often leads to a plan for treatment, counseling, medication, or other services.

Scheduling.

Care Coordinators can give you information related to the nearest provider, walk-in hours, costs, and may even call ahead to schedule an appointment for you.

Review.

With your consent, Care Coordinators can review the results of your assessment which will help them continue to support your recovery.

Follow-up.

They can arrange appointments based on treatment recommendations and set up a plan for ongoing contact.

Ongoing support.

Care Coordinators are experienced. They can be an important advocate especially during your first year of sobriety.

This service is available to anyone including:

- Individuals struggling with addiction (prescription or illicit use)
- Family or friends needing extra support or guidance

Care Coordination is FREE and confidential.

You can opt out at any time. Everyone's needs are different and every plan is customized.
