

Simple ways parents can strengthen their own families

At DSS, we believe that strong families are South Dakota's foundation and our future. Parents can take a few simple steps to strengthen their families and help put an end to child abuse and neglect.

What parents can do:

- ✓ Take time at the end of each day to connect with your children with a hug, a smile, or a few minutes of listening and talking.
- ✓ Find ways to engage your children while completing everyday tasks (meals, shopping, driving in the car). Talk about what you are doing, ask them questions, or play simple games.
- ✓ Explore parenting questions with your family doctor, your child's teacher, family, or friends.
- ✓ Subscribe to a magazine, website, or online newsletter about child development.
- ✓ Take a parenting class at a local community center (these often have sliding fee scales).
- ✓ Sit and observe what your child can and cannot do and share what you learn with anyone who cares for your child.
- ✓ Take quiet time to re-energize: take a bath, write, sing, laugh, play.

- ✓ Do some physical exercise: walk, stretch, do yoga, lift weights, dance.
- ✓ Share your feelings with someone you trust.
- ✓ Surround yourself with people who support you and make you feel good about yourself.
- ✓ Participate in neighborhood activities such as potluck dinners, picnics, or block parties.
- ✓ Join a playgroup or online support group of parents with children at similar ages.
- ✓ Find a church, temple, or mosque that welcomes and supports parents.

- ✓ Make a list of people or places to call for support.
- ✓ Ask your child's school to host a Community Resource Night, so you and other parents can see what help your community offers.
- ✓ Dial "2-1-1" to find out about organizations that support families in your area.
- ✓ Provide regular routines, especially for young children. Make sure everyone who cares for your child is aware of your routines around mealtimes, naps, and bedtime.
- ✓ Talk with your children about how important feelings are.
- ✓ Teach and encourage children to solve problems in age-appropriate ways.
