Keep In Mind

Hundreds of South Dakota children need foster families while their own families work to overcome circumstances that make the child unsafe.

The more foster families there are in our communities, the easier it is to keep siblings together and keep children in their own neighborhoods and schools. Foster families of every culture are needed to help children build and maintain positive identities.

Will You Be The One to Open Your Heart and Home?

SOUTH DAKOTA
Be the One to Change Lives
Foster parents must be at least 21 years of age.

Your house must be a safe place, without structural or health hazards.

A family must have sufficient income to meet the essential needs of their family. The Department of Social Services provides monthly financial assistance to support the needs of the children in foster care.

To ensure the safety of children in foster care, potential foster families are screened for past criminal activity and reports of abuse or neglect.

Attendance and completion of a 30-hour foster parent education and training program to prepare and support families for success as a foster parent.

- Foster parents work with family services specialists for training, licensing, and to determine if fostering is right for their family - all at no cost.
- Foster parents may be single, married or divorced; parents, grandparents or people with or without children of their own.
- Foster parents may be either homeowners or renters.
- Foster families receive financial assistance to help with child care and other costs of caring for the child in foster care.
- Children in foster care will have their own medical, dental and vision insurance.
- Children in foster care may share a bedroom with children of the same gender.
- Some foster parents choose to foster children for many years. Others choose to foster for a short period of time. The choice is yours.

In communities all across South Dakota, children are in need of loving and safe foster homes.

If you choose to become a foster parent, you will have a team of professionals to support you. They will ensure you are informed about what to expect, prepare you for the experience, and provide you with the resources you need like parenting techniques.
